Comments on Tiant's Victory

Harry was playing BLM. However, he has made some rule changes which will be discussed in the mail sack. They obviously will affect the replay of his games.

Harry's eighth inning smacks of an attempt to "maintain" Tiant's no hitter. So does the Angels' ninth. You should never manipulate the players in order to provide another player better chances to do what you would like to have him do. In this case-- pitch a no-hitter.

1) Harry doesn't say whether he attempted to put out Rodgers or Knoop on Knoop's sacrifice. If he tried for Knoop then Knoop should have been given a hit. If he tried for Rodgers then we have a problem. It could have been scored as a hit or a sacrifice. You would have to decide according to Knoop's SBA and his chances to bunt successfully. 2) Harry had Fregosi bunt--this is ridiculous. Trailing by one run, with men on first and second and with one out no manager would have a batter bunting. If you did not think your runner on second was fast enough to score on a single you would put in a faster man. Bunting him to 3rd would be a distinct disadvantage for the offensive team since they would have to give up one out to accomplish it. As it turned out the decisions became even worse. That's because the defense took a long chance and went for Rodgers. They had just 4 chances to get him and did-- that's luck!! They had a better chance to double up Fregosi but failed. Harry's decisions certainly failed to take into consideration the game situation and the percentages.

Fregosi having bunted, the defense with one out should have gone for the easiest out! Give the runner third. He still needs a hit or error to score. The way Harry played it he first gave the advantage to the defense by having Fregosi bunt, then he turned the tables by playing to third giving Fregosi a great chance to make first and leave the offense with one out and the bases loaded. The fact that Rodgers was put out was pure luck. 3) In the ninth, Harry had Repoz and Mincher hit and run. Down two runs in the ninth with no outs and one on you do not have your clean-up batter hit & run.

Last Tiant pitched the major leagues first no-hitter this afternoon over the California Angels. Duke Sims' bunt was off starter and tough-luck loser. Sammy Ellis gave the Tribe all they needed to win.

After that, it remained to be seen if Tiant would win the game. Much less pitch a no-hitter. He stranded 6 Angel runners and pitched out of jams in the 4th, 5th and 9th. Oddly, not one ball hit off Tiant looked like a hit. Luis did not help his own cause as he walked 4 and contributed a tense 9th inning error.

In the 8th inning, Rodgers walked. Knoop bunted and all hands were made on the play. Official scorer gave Knoop a sacrifice, so hit on the obvious sacrifice attempt. Sakic came up as a pinch runner for Ellis and Tiant rose to the challenge and struck him out. Fregosi, playing against the book, bunted for a base hit with the infield deep. Alvin came in and scooped up the ball. Larry Brown at short alertly ran to third and the tag beat the sliding Rodgers. Schall grounded to short to retire the side.

The Indians scored once in the 6th, and was 2-0.

Table Game Discussion

Final Question: 5) Do the players average out, and would playing 810 games make any difference?

Yes, the players do average out. Some will have short bursts of hot or cold streaks which will make their averages seem too high or too low, but in 162 games these performances should average out to their real-life marks. Not in every case-- chance will affect some, but most should be very close to their rated performances.

No, 810 games would not make a difference. You suggest 162 for each team playing the other team's their full 162 games wouldn't change a team's performance in its 162 game season.

The Mail Sack

The Mail Sack is composed of letters and letter-orders plus, at times, appropriate comments and answers by ASD's editor to questions posed by the correspondents. Contributing letters to this section, at this time, are: AllSports Digest, BLM, and Negamco.

(From ASD)

Here are several questions and one suggestion about the actual play of the baseball game.

First the suggestion... Even though the pitchers SO rating effects the batters out determination, hitters that have a frequency of hitting into DP's (such as Stanley, Hansen etc) are not doing this. I have taken some of their fielding figures for the better thirdbase, second and shortstops and have applied them thusly:

A) On "A" grounders to these certain fielders (determined by number of DP's and assists and general reputation) there is no advance by the baserunner(s) regardless of the "A" rule.

Example: If the Dodgers had Haller on first and Fairly batting hit a groundball to 6A, this would be an out SS-1B only. This is unfair to the fielder (in this case say it was Gene Alley) because both men are slow and do hit into DP's often. Using a combination of numbers (SS and 2B must have a fielding total of 6 or under) Alley would throw to Maz for the force on Haller and then throw to first to get Fairly. If Fairly's SBA is 41 or less he is out. This method gives the better fielding players an advantage over the lesser fielders who because of limited action would have a high fielding percentage in less appearances than Alley or Maz.

Example: Brock on second base. Flood batting against Jenkins of Cubs, with Santo, Kessinger and Beckert in the infield. Flood grounds to Kessinger 6A. With my rule, only runners with an SBA of 43 or over may advance on these types of grounders.

(Ed) My suggestion is- play according to the rules and forget this variation. You are basing your change not on statistics, but personal conjecture. No batter hits into DP's "often." With your rule, you will get too many DP's if you play properly and you won't get as many advances so you will score fewer runs than normal and your pitching performance will be too good.

BLM handles this aspect of baseball in the best possible manner- by pitcher, not by batter. You will be surprised, undoubtedly to learn that your "slow man" Haller hit into only 3 DP's in 1968. BLM bases its ratings on what a person-pitcher, batter, fielder- did do! They spent a long time analyzing the game and it should be played as shown in the rules.

Question 1. Would it be possible for you to rate the Tiger/StL 1968 World Series.

(Ed) I can not give any ratings for any WS.

Question 2. What fielders do I check after a batter has had his double bobbled in the outfield and stretches this hit and error into a score?

(Ed) If you want- check the players as they would handle the relay: either shortstops or secondbasemen. You must know who handles relays and cut offs in order to check errors in these situations.

Several months ago, I sent in for a 2 year subscription to your paper. Since then, I have received the May and June issues but not the July. I wish to receive this issue.

I should also like to compliment you on the quality of your digest. It is interesting and useful.

Paul Price, Kettering Ohio 45429

(Ed) I am late with the July issue. It is being sent the last part of July. I hope to catch up again by September's issue. Thanks for your patience and compliment.

(From ASD)

I also want to ask a question. I am replaying the Indians schedule of last year, using both Negamco and BLM Baseball. In other words, if I feel like playing BLM, I use it; if I'm in the mood for Negamco, I play with it. Should this change my final results any, if and when I finish their 162 game schedule?

Also, since I don't have all the information to start the exact lineups the Indians started in real life, I use my own lineups, but make sure that each player plays the same number of games at each position as he really did. The same goes for starting and relief pitchers.

I sometimes get quite a kick out of some of the letters you reprint from game owners who gripe if their results don't come out exactly the same as they did in real life. Sure, I like to get realistic results too, but as long as the games I play are exciting and I get relaxation out of playing them, I'm more than happy.

Bill Henning, Oshawa, Ont, Canada.

(Ed) you will not get as realistic results when you mix the two, but they will be good results. You are playing your men properly. Often using set line-ups from the newspapers takes a great deal of fun out of the replay. Most people like to set their own line-up as you are doing.

(From ASD)

I received the June issue of ASD and was surprised at how early it was. I enjoy your digest very much, especially after not having anything like it for the past twenty or so years I have been playing table games.

The articles on Negamco basketball are of particular interest, as I have all of last years teams offered by you and Negamco.

John Borchert's college replay tournament was very good, although I must admit I was surprised at some of the results. I'm sorry I can't agree with his suggestion for more "small college" teams.

The interest in these teams would be purely local and most fans wouldn't want them, whereas it is much easier to identify and be interested in major colleges and players.

I was very interested in your reply in the mail sack about the scoring in Negamco Basketball and am enclosing 60¢ for a copy of the Dec. 1967 issue about this.

Clark T. Davis, Carmichael, Ca 95608

(From ASD)

I received the March issue of ASD, and I was pleased at the length of the magazine.

The thing that bothered me was Ed Caylor's replay. This bothered me not only as a table game fan, as I feel that things such as this hurt table game's new found respect.

When I first glanced at the incredibly accurate results I became suspicious.

There is no way a man like Beatty could be rated to shoot exactly .794. So Beatty hitting .794 is strange, but I have computed the odds against the top three hawks hitting their exact averages is an astronomical 15,625 to 1.

Although skeptical, I do not have the computers to show unquestionably that a player cannot be rated to score within 4 points of his season total (which is often in the thousands) as every one of the Hawks is reported to have done. You probably realize, as I do, that this is virtually impossible.

For all these reasons, I doubt that these stats could possibly be obtained. Perhaps Mr. Caylor would like to prove me wrong!

Robert Watson, Rye, NY 10580

ASD's NEGAMCO COLLEGE BASKETBALL DEFENSIVE RATINGS

The following ratings are for use with the 1969 edition of Negamco College basketball teams. I would appreciate your comments on the ratings.

Since all basketball ratings are based on real-life performances, but you often play the teams against other teams which were not opponents in real life, these ratings are subject to error. If at any time you feel that one of these teams is rated too high or too low you may change the rating or discontinue the use of these ratings and play in the regular way.

HOW TO USE

M equals Minus, P equals Plus, and E equals Even. Simply subtract or add the team's defensive rating from the shooter's FG rate each time the opponent's player is shooting. For example: If a player with a FG of 1-50 was shooting and the defensive team's rating was M2 the shooter's rate would be reduced to 1-48.

(Ed) The following owners wish to contact other sport game enthusiasts in their area for the purpose of starting a game club. Write them if interested.

We are interested in forming a league to replay the '68-'69 NBA season. This league will be open to Negamco game owners only. List your top 7 choices in either division, but not both divisions. If you are interested in the Eastern Div. write: Gary Nuetzel, 7929 N 55th St., Milwaukee, Wisc 53223. For the West, write: Gary Redlinger, 7872 North Link Place, Milwaukee, Wisc 53223.

Anyone interested in participating in a BLM College Basketball League please contact Mike Baran, 334 East 65th St, New York, NY 10021.

Adult sport gamers(20 yrs or older), living in or near northeast Philadelphia interested in participating in current 7 man league, call 722-3769 and ask for Bob. Must be willing to travel for "live" games; no play by mail.

The following teams are still available in the pro hockey play by mail league I am forming: Detroit; St. Louis, Oakland, Pittsburgh and Minnesota. You must own the 1970 edition of Negamco Pro Hockey. We will replay the complete 1968-'69 season. If interested send your preferences to: Bill Strough, Rte 4, Box 572, Marshall, MI 49068.

UNITED BASEBALL LEAGUE

We are in our 3rd year, and we were formed from an ad in your paper. Our league is going quite well this year. Our UBL News is now available. It is 50¢ per copy. May's issue was 17 pages, 8 x 11 size.

I think your readers would like to see how the UBL manages to move right along even tho our managers are scattered around the "world." For copies of the UBL News write: Roger Duncan, 1028 Railroad St., Creighton, Pa 15030.

(Ed) This notice is placed here because the United Baseball League is one of the more successful mail leagues and the UBL News contains many ideas about mail leagues. A person wanting to participate in a league or begin a league of his own should really subscribe to a few issues of the UBL News to see how one "experienced league" has developed.

Sign Up Now! The NBBA will play the 1968 baseball season(NL) using the BLM game and the actual line-ups as found in The Sporting News. Our open teams are Los Angeles, New York, and Houston. Sign up right away so we don't have to let our good managers down!

David Vogels, President, National Baseball Association, 1508 Madison St. Bellevue, Nebr. 68005.
